A CUDAHY KIDNAPER

Jas. Callahan Arrested As One of the Men.

STRONG EVIDENCE

Positively Identified by Young Cudahy And Also by Others Connected With the Case---Other Circumstances Point to His Guilt.

Omaha, Feb. 19.—James Callahan, charged with complicity in the abduction of Edward Cudahy, Jr., is under arrest here. Callahan was arrested last Saturday, but the police have kept the fact a secret until today in the hope of securing other arrests. Young Cudahy has positively identified him as the man who accosted him near the Cudahy residence and forced him into a buggy and also as the man who kept guard over him at the Melrose hill house during the 30 hours he was kept a prisoner, pending the negotiations for the ransom of $25,000.

Daniel H. Burris, who sold a horse and buggy to two men previous to the kidnaping, also identified Callahan as one of the men with whom he made the deal. Marie Larsen, a servant in the employ of J. N. H. Patrick, identified Callahan as the man who rented a cottage in Happy Hollow, which the bandits abandoned two weeks before the abduction, from her employer.

Callahan was arrested by Patrolmen Dueberry and Dwyer, both of whom are old acquaintances of the prisoner. They knew that he was a close friend of Pat Crowe, for whom a large reward has been offered as the leader in the kidnaping. Their suspicions sometime ago were aroused by remarks dropped by Callahan in connection with the discussions of the Cudahy affair. These suspicions were communicated to the chief of police, who made a quiet but thorough investigation, which led to Callahan's arrest.

Positive Identification.

Young Cudahy's identification of the man seems to be complete. Together with his father, he called Sunday at the office of the chief of police and confronted the prisoner. The men had a conversation lasting half an hour and after Callahan had been taken away [illegible]

"I would never forget that voice and I also remember very distinctly his peculiar manner of pronouncing certain words. In his present talk he used these same words, and pronounced them the same. As I had several good looks at the man while he was guarding me, so I can be pretty sure that this is the man wanted."

Callahan denies absolutely that he had anything to do with the kidnaping but admits that he was a close friend to Crowe. He alleges that during the time that it is said he spent guarding young Cudahy, he was at the home of his sister, a Mrs. Kelley, at Poppleton avenue and Fifty Third street, which is a short distance from the Melrose hill house.

Mrs. Kelley tonight was asked concerning the whereabouts of Callahan at the time of the abduction and said the day following the deed he was at her home, but acknowledged that she did not know his whereabouts the night before.

Prior to the kidnaping Callahan is said to have been in Crowe's company daily. He introduced Crowe as "Mr. Johnson" and they took rides daily in the vicinity of Rusers park which is near where Mr. Cudahy left the gold on the eventful night.

Tonight the police secured information which they expect to lead to the arrest of another man connected with the crime. He is a coachman employed by a neighbor of the Cudahys. The chief of police expects this man to throw additional light on the matter.

The coachman's name is John Murta. His son is the man really wanted, and the elder Murta is expected to tell of his son's actions at the time of the stealing of the boy. Young Murta, Chief of Police Donahue says, fits minutely the description of man No. 3, and is now the object of search.

Callahan is 38 years old and has lived in Omaha for several years. He has been employed in the packing house of the Cudahy Packing company here up to three months ago. He has not been employed for some time, but the police claim he has been spending money freely. In 1893 he was given a five-year [illegible] robbery, but after serving 18 months was paroled. Six months later he was convicted for stealing and sent back to serve the remainder of the sentence. Callahan is held as man No. 2, as described in the circular recently sent broadcast, describing the three men supposed to be the abductors and for whom there is now a combined reward of nearly $60,000.

Callahan's Statement.

Callahan tonight made a statement as follows:

"I know nothing, absolutely nothing about the kidnaping of Edward Cudahy. If I did I would be the last man in the world to tell it, because if I did and Pat Crowe proved to be connected with the crime he would run me to the end of the earth and run a knife through me. There is no danger of me turning state's evidence, even if I had knowledge of the deed, which would assist the state in a conviction. Rather would I serve a term in the penitentiary than take chances of acknowledging that I had information incriminating to myself or anybody else because I know the people of this city would not rest until they had hanged me to the nearest telegraph pole. I have seven people who will swear to my whereabouts on the night of the abduction and the two nights following.

"The statements of those who have pretended to identify me with the case go for nothing. I know none of them, have never seen them, or had any dealings with them."

THE DENVER POLICE CASE

Resignations of the Suspended Men Have Been Requested.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Feb. 19.—The Denver police board completed its investigation of the charges against certain members of the police department this afternoon and addressed an open letter to certain members asking for their resignation. Those who are asked to resign are, Captain Martyn, Detec- [illegible] ders and McIlduff, Sergeant Mahoney and Officer Engle. Captain Phillips is suspended until the further order of the board.

The letter was issued late this afternoon and came as a surprise to nearly every one. It had been supposed that some of those who had been charged with being corrupt would be exonerated.

The suspension of Captain Phillips came as a complete surprise to everyone because his name had been mentioned during the investigation only once and that was when Captain Martyn charged Phillips with being responsible for his (Martyn's) trouble. That part of the letter suspending Captain Phillips reads as follows:

"Inasmuch as it is apparent that the jealousies and bickerings in the department extend not only to the captains of police but to their respective followers on the force which results in crippling the efficiency of the department and believing that the change of [illegible] is necessary to restore harmony in the department and for that reason only, it is therefore ordered that said Captain Phillips be and is hereby suspended without pay until the further order of the board."

Strife in the Department.

The letter recites at length the history of the case from the time the rumors started over two years ago until the testimony at the recent investigation was taken, showing what efforts had been made to investigate all rumors [illegible].

"After hearing all the evidence offered against six of the officers, there was sufficient evidence, taking the rumors into consideration, to formulate charges against the six officers herein named and a trial was had upon the specific charges formulated. The board is not insensible of the fact that much of the scandal which has been in circulation concerning the police department has arisen and been fostered within the police department itself more than from sources without; that there have been bickerings, petty jealousies and unseemly strife was dis- [illegible] vestigation. The disclosures upon the trial as well as previous impressions have led the board to believe that the jealousies which have been developing between the captains of the police and their followers in the department have grown to such magnitude that the public welfare might be subserved by making changes in the captains of police. In view of the foregoing facts the board finds as follows:

"First—That the testimony introduced before the board against the above-named officers is so conflicting and emanates from such questionable sources that we are unwilling to say that they or any of them are guilty of the charges under which they were tried.

"Second—The testimony introduced at the hearing convinces the board that the efficiency of the police department will be promoted if each of the parties herein above named shall tender their resignations, which resignations are hereby requested."

The letter congratulates the citizens of Denver in the following words:

"It must be pleasing to our fellow citizens to know that in a force numbering 120 men that no evidence was offered making even any insinuations against more than six officers of the force."

The letter is signed by R. W. Speer, [illegible] Sayre and C. I. Burpee. It is said that Detectives Carberry and Sanders have refused to resign. They give as their reasons that the charges [illegible]. If the resignations are not presented by tomorrow morning they will be dismissed by the board.

History of the Trouble.

The actions of certain members of the police department have been under suspicion for a number of years. The jealousies referred to in the letter have no doubt been the cause of a number of charges. The present investigation began about two weeks ago, because two notorious women who were under arrest were released on what was supposed to be a fake bond. The local papers took the matter up and charged that they were released because of their graft. All kinds of rumors were soon started and the entire department being in a state of jealousy all sorts of charges were made. In order to learn the facts of the case the fire and police board ordered an investigation. Later the above named men with the exception of Mr. Phillips were suspended pending the result of the investigation. The result was the above letter.

In view of the changes made by the resignations, the fire and police board held an executive session this evening and appointed Sergeant Martin Casey as captain to succeed Captain Martyn, and Sergeant A. H. Skelly in place of Captain Phillips. The following officers were promoted to sergeants: H. M. Southard, Charles Dougall and Sam Baughman.

ARID LAND IRRIGATION

SENATE DISCUSSED HAZING

Provisions Inserted In the Academy Bill Declared Too Drastic and Were Rejected Altogether.

Washington, Feb. 19. The house spent the day upon the sundry civil appropriation bill and reached the ninety-ninth page. There are [illegible] pages in the bill. The feature of the day was the debate upon the question of national irrigation of arid lands in the west, which came up incidentally. No material amendments were placed upon the bill today. Mr. Cannon reported the last of general appropriation bills, the deficiency.

Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, reported back the resolution of inquiry introduced by Mr. Naphen (Mass.) and it was adopted. The resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That the secretary of the treasury be requested to inform the house if 'our ports or waters' have been used for the exportation of horses, mules and other supplies for use in South Africa, and if so, to what extent and what steps have been taken to prevent the same, also the number of horses and mules that have been shipped since the beginning of the war in South Africa to the present time, giving the shipments from each port and dates."

A somewhat similar resolution of inquiry addressed to the secretary of state also was adopted.

The house then resumed consideration of the sundry civil bill.

Irrigation Question.

The item appropriating $100,000 for the investigation of underground currents and artesian wells in the arid land regions and the preparations of reports upon the best methods of utilizing the water resources of those regions led to a considerable debate upon the subject of irrigation of arid lands. The whole question was threshed over. Mr. Hill (Conn.) said the great scheme of irrigation would cost the government $36,000,000,000. Mr. Newlands (Nev.) said these figures were chimerical.

After some further remarks by Messrs. Mondell (Wyo.), King (Utah) and Bell (Colo.), Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, concluded this branch of the debate.

The arid land senators and representatives, he said, had arrived at the conclusion that the time had come to irrigate the arid lands at the expense of the federal treasury.

Mr. Cannon predicted that if the scheme were entered upon it would cost more than $750,000,000 in the next 50 years.

"In some respects," said Mr. Cannon, "I am a pretty good Democrat, better than some of those calling themselves such on the other side. I believe in local self government. I will vote to give every acre of the arid lands to the states in which they are located and to give to those states the power to go into the courts and to allow them to determine as between themselves their rights in the matter. I do not believe any other policy can be pursued without making the population of the arid land states dependent upon the United States."

"Do you believe the reservoir sites in California from which Nevada could be watered should be ceded to Nevada?" asked Mr. Newlands.

"I would give Nevada a day in court [illegible] rights as against those of California," replied Mr. Cannon. "But I think it would be far better to make out of Nevada, with its 40,000 inhabitants, a respectable county of California." (Laughter and applause.)

The house at 5:40 p. m. adjourned.

MEASURES AGAINST HAZING REJECTED BY THE SENATE

Washington, Feb. 19.—By the emphatic vote of 18 to 42 the senate late this afternoon rejected the conference report on the military academy appropriation bill. This action came at the conclusion of a spirited debate upon the provisions against hazing inserted in the report by the conference committee of the two branches of congress. Discussion of the provision which was precipitated at the close of yesterday's session by Mr. Daniel (Va.) occupied the greater part of today's session and the report of the conferees was rejected because it was regarded by a large majority of the senate as too drastic, and while no instructions could be given the conferees by the senate it was understood that to secure favorable action by the senate a modified provision as to the penalty for hazing would have to be presented and agreed upon by the conferees.

Early in the day Mr. Deboe (Ky.) delivered his announced speech upon the Nicaragua canal. He reviewed at length the proceedings which led up to the present situation and strongly advocated the construction of the waterway by the United States. An effort was made to obtain consideration of the bill reviving the grade of vice admiral of the navy for the benefit of Rear Admirals Sampson and Schley, but it was unavailing.

Debate on Hazing.

During the debate on the conference report on the military academy bill, Mr. Sewell defended the action of the conferees, holding that they had followed the instructions of both the senate and the house. He declared that many people thought Booz was killed by hazing and if there was anything this country demanded it was a law to prevent such a crime as hazing.

Mr. Pettus argued that the provision of the conference report which debarred a cadet convicted of hazing from ever holding a commission in the army, navy or marine corps was clearly unconstitutional.

Mr. Butler urged that congress ought not to be swept off its feet by popular clamor. He believed that in this instance congress was enacting extreme legislation without due consideration.

Penalty Too Severe.

Messrs. Hawley, [illegible] and Lodge expressed the opinion that the conferees had gone too far and said that while hazing should be suppressed no perpetual stigma should be put on convicted cadets.

Mr. Depew in opposing the hazing penalty, declared that it had been adopted under popular clamor and that congress had acted upon impulse rather than upon judgment. He agreed that dismissal from the academy ought to follow conviction of hazing but the young man, he said, should not leave West Point with a brand upon him; a brand that would remain upon him through life, that was going too far. He suggested that a conspiracy might be organized against some cadet at the academy so that by his conviction of hazing he would be posted as a criminal for life. It would be a punishment almost equivalent to the Russian method of banishing students to Siberia and to the mines for violation of college regulations.

The Anti-Hazers.

Mr. Allen (Neb.) in opposing any change in the penalty prescribed by the conference report for hazing, had read a part of the report of the house committee which investigated the death of young Booz which he declared had "no parallel for barbarity in prize fighting, in bear baiting or in bull fighting."

Mr. Tillman said that those cadets who practised hazing upon their physical inferiors were "brutes and dogs" and he doubted whether the provision against hazing could go too far.

"This school at West Point," he asserted, "has become a disgrace in the eyes of the world on account of hazing."

Mr. Freller said a system of hazing had grown up at West Point totally unlike that in any other institution in the country. It ought to be suppressed with a strong hand. Men who practiced that sort of brutality, he declared, were unfitted for the command of American soldiers. The people are outraged by this practice, said he. We have got to stop it or eventually dismantle the institution.

Question of Results.

Mr. Wolcott thought congress had entered upon a trifling piece of business. The enactment of the provision would make of the cadets milksops and prigs. He related some personal experiences of hazing in his college days and remarked that some of the hazers won name and fame while others went from bad to worse, some even ending finally in the senate of the United States.

In conclusion he declared that for 35 years every West Point cadet had been hazed and in turn had been a hazer. Despite that the institution had developed a splendid lot of fighting material. Congress was not justified in treating the body of cadets like a lot of school children and in bringing them up as weak and enervated soldiers.

Mr. Hale believed the conference r- Mr. Hale believed the conference report ought to be rejected.

Mr. Money maintained that the proposed provision was not due to a popular clamor but to a deep-seated and righteous indignation which permeated the entire country.

Mr. Daniel (Va.) opposed the conference report. He declared the proposed legislation was more suitable to the middle ages. The conference report was rejected; yeas 18, nays 42. Messrs. Sewell, Warren and Harris were named as members of a new conference committee on the part of the senate.

KILLED IN A KANSAS RAID

Charge of Murder to Be Made Against Four Farmers.

SHOTGUNS ON BOTH SIDES

First Victim was a Woman, Wife of a Saloon Keeper in a Small Town Near Leavenworth.

Leavenworth, Kan., Feb. 19.—Four farmers arrested today for complicity in the saloon raid at Milwood, Kan., that resulted in the killing of Mrs. Rosa Hudson, the bartender's wife, have been lodged in the county jail here. Tomorrow the county attorney says he will file a complaint against them of murder in the first degree. The raiders are John Wilburn, William Thornburg, Andy Wilson and Joe Turner. Wilburn is but 28 years old and each of the others is 26. All but Turner are married.

Back of the alleged raid there is said to have existed a feud of long standing. Other arrests may follow. William Webb, who was wounded during the fusillade is not seriously hurt.

Story of the Trouble.

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—A special to the Star from Leavenworth, Kas., says:

Twenty masked farmers armed with shot guns, attempted to raid a saloon in Millwood, a small place fourteen miles north of here, last night, and in the melee that followed Mrs. Rose Hudson, wife of the bartender, was instantly killed, her head being completely blown off; William Webb, one of the raiders, was shot in the arm and two or three others were slightly hurt. One hundred shots were fired.

The saloon was run by Mrs. Michael Lochner. She had been warned to close the place by Monday, but refused. At 10 o'clock last night twenty men, all armed and wearing handkerchiefs for masks, approached the saloon. Two of the number, Joe Turner and John Wilburn, entered the place and ordered drinks. Bartender Hudson had scarcely set the glasses on the bar when the men gave a signal. Immediately the door was burst open and the masked men rushed into the place. Half a dozen shot guns were raised to the ceiling and fired, apparently to warn the saloon keeper that they meant business, while two men approached Hudson and levelled guns. Hudson grabbed the barrels of both for an instant, then fell to the floor. The guns were discharged as he fell, the charge from one striking the wall and that from the second piercing the stove.

Mrs. Hudson rushed to the scene from the living rooms in the rear and stood in the doorway. She had barely reached the spot when a gun was levelled at the door and discharged. The shot struck her in the forehead above the eyes, and she fell mortally wounded. Hudson rushed to his wife's side to administer to her, but she died before he could carry her to another room. During the shooting William Webb, one of the raiders, was accidentally shot in the arm, and two or three others were wounded slightly. A few more shots were fired, but the mob, alarmed at the killing of Mrs. Hudson, [illegible] without stopping to destroy the liquors and fixtures.

Anticipating the attack, Hudson had gathered about him ten armed men, [illegible] however, taken by surprise, were stampeded and this fact and the killing of Mrs. Hudson probably prevented a bloody riot.

The affray lasted but a few minutes and the details were not learned until this morning, the raiders having gone quickly to their homes. The members of the party are believed to be young farmers who live near Millwood.

THE REVENUE BILL READ

Consideration of Amendments Begun But Little Progress Was Made.

SOME MINOR CHANGES MADE

The Senate Refused to Make the Stubbs Capital Punishment Bill a Special Order For Friday.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Feb. 19. The famous Montgomery revenue bill is at last under consideration in the Colorado assembly. At 11:20 this morning it was called up in the house upon a motion by Representative Martin, and the remainder of the day until 4 o'clock this afternoon was devoted to its consideration. The reading of the bill occupied two hours and 40 minutes and was continued during the noon hour. The afternoon session was given over to the adoption of a few minor amendments.

The senate refused to make the Stubbs capital punishment bill a special order for Friday at two o'clock, held a two hours caucus at which time it was decided to pass all constitutional amendments on second reading but to defer their passage on third reading until the supreme court shall pass upon the constitutionality of senate bill No. 2, (the Rush consolidation bill.) At the afternoon session a few minor constitutional amendments were adopted, and the senate adjourned to meet the joint caucus at 4 o'clock. The judiciary committee will meet tomorrow morning at 9:30 and complete their formulations of questions regarding the constitutionality of the Rush bill and will submit them to the senate tomorrow, after which, if agreeable, they will be sent to the supreme court for its opinion.

IN THE HOUSE

The house disposed of a few minor matters this morning and went into committee of the whole for the consideration of house bill No. 1. A lengthy discussion followed over how the bill should come before the house. Speaker Montgomery contended that the bill should be read and amended section by section. Representative Bell contended that the bill should first be read at length and then be read by sections and discussed. Mr. Montgomery withdrew his motion and the bill was ordered read. The reading began at 11:20 a. m. and continued until 2 p. m. During the reading the members took turns in relieving the reading clerk. Among those who helped to read the measure were Dunlavy, Dinkle, Edwards, McGuire, Insley, Gray and Platt.

Amendments Considered.

As soon as the reading was completed the committee began the consideration of the amendment as offered by the joint finance committee. The proceedings moved along smoothly for about five minutes, when Mr. Schweigert unintentionally stirred up a confusion by complaining that the committee was going too fast. The average amendment read about as follows: "On page 6, line 8, strike out the work 'to' and insert the word 'for.'" Mr. Schweigert contended that where such an amendment was adopted and was rushed through in about three seconds it did not give the members time to realize what effect the amendment would have on the meaning of the bill. Immediately some half dozen members were on their feet objecting to the adoption of the finance committee amendments to the exclusion of all others. After an hour of debate, during which time the members became confused over what objection had been made, it was decided to proceed slowly.

Bartels Objected.

The first objection to the bill was raised by Mr. Bartels against charging both plaintiff and defendant $1 for each civil suit in the district or country court. He moved that 50 cents be the amount charged. He was opposed to the entire section and gave notice that he would fight it later on. His motion was lost and the amendment as offered was adopted. The next objection was directed against the assessment of 50 cents in filing a claim in the probate court. It was contended that a man should not be taxed because he wished to collect a claim against the dead. The objection was sustained and the matter stricken out.

The house then adjourned for the purpose of meeting the senate in a joint caucus at 4 o'clock. The following committee was appointed to receive Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, and to arrange a public reception for him: Senators Smith, Newell and Copp and Representatives Briscoe, Stubbs, Burwell and Carringer.

SENATE SESSION.

The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock. A number of petitions in relation to certain bills were read and referred.

The First Presbyterian church of Colorado Springs sent a long petition asking for the adoption of the Philp local option bill. The chamber of commerce of the same city petitioned the legislature to adopt the Seldomridge bond issue bill.

The rest of the morning was devoted to the discussion of when the capital punishment bills shall be discussed. An attempt was made to make the Stubbs capital punishment bill a special order for Friday at 2 o'clock. The attempt failed. An attempt to substitute H. B. No. 71 (the Stubbs bill) for all senate bills was discussed until the noon hour and was killed by a motion, which prevailed, to take a recess.

The senate devoted the afternoon to the consideration of constitutional amendments while in the committee of the whole. Senator Parks' bill concerning the right of trial by jury and providing that three-fourths of a jury may render a verdict in all civil cases was adopted. Senate bill No. 21, by Senator Barela, prescribing the qualifications of a voter, was also adopted. The bill provides that a person must be a citizen of the United States, and must have resided in the state 12 months just preceding the election at which he offers to vote. When the committee arose the Taylor amendment making the election for different officers come every two years, was under consideration.

THE JOINT CAUCUS.

The fusion members of the assembly held a joint caucus in the representatives hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon at which time the mode of procedure on the revenue bill was discussed. After a lengthly debate which was not at all harmonious a committee was appointed to draft an agreement for a joint signed caucus to consider the bill. The committee is to meet tonight and will report tomorrow at 2 p. m. The committee is instructed to draw up such an agreement as will meet the approval of the greatest number of the fusion members. It is then proposed to obtain signatures to the agreement. If a majority of the members of both houses can be induced to sign the agreement the revenue bill will be considered in a joint caucus and the caucus agreement will be binding.

The committee that has been appointed to draft the agreement is composed of the following: Schweigert, Briscoe, Rawalt, Lubers, McGuire, Barela, Annear, Ward, Ammons, Stewart. It is thought the house will defer consideration of the bill until after this committee has reported.

A NATIONALIST SPOKE IN THE IRISH LANGUAGE

London, Feb. 19. Thomas O'Donnell, Nationalist, began to address the house of commons today in the Irish language, and the speaker called him to order after he had spoken three or four sentences, reminding him that to speak Irish was an unknown practice in the house of commons.

Mr. O'Donnell continued to speak in the Irish tongue, greatly to the delight of the Nationalists around him. The speaker severely requested him to desist.

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, said:

"There is no written or unwritten rule against a members using the language which is most familiar to him."

The Speaker There is no rule on the subject, but there is no precedent during the existence of the house of commons for a member speaking anything but English. Not in one hundred years of union has an Irishman tried to speak [illegible] in this house until now.

Mr. O'Donnell refused to speak in English and reasserted his right as the representative of an Irish constituency and a member of a nation still possessing a language of its own, to address the house in his native tongue.

At this point the speaker stopped him peremptorily.

The Republican city central committee will hold a meeting within the next few days and outline a plan of battle to be followed by the party in the [illegible] history of the city have the Republicans been so confident of success as they are this year. Two years ago it was difficult to secure members of the party to act as candidates for the various offices upon the ticket because at that time the chance of victory was very poor. This year there are three and four candidates for aldermanic honors from each ward and each aspirant will adopt every legitimate means to secure the nomination at the hands of the convention. A place upon the ticket this year almost insures the candidate's election. At the meeting the central committee will probably select a successor to Chairman Berry, who recently resigned.

When Grippe Hangs On, Look Out for Consumption

Grippe this season is unusually tenacious. It permeates every part of the body. In most cases it settles finally in the lungs.

If you have lung trouble, or a tendency to it, give your lungs immediate attention after Grippe. Have them most thoroughly examined, and don't delay treatment. Delay may mean consumption. If you have consumption, delay means death.

Free Examination of the Lungs and Throat

These thorough, scientific examinations, giving you all the advantage of Dr Shepard's twenty-five years' special study of consumption, are given from 11 to 12 and 4 to 5, except on Sunday.

Grippe is making more consumptives than any other one cause. Don't dally with death.

FRANK A. VORHES, 22 S. Tejon St.

"A STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND."

"A Stranger in a Strange Land" will hold the stage at the Opera house [illegible] Friday evening.

Although this being the first time the play has been presented in this city, its reputation has preceded it. It is to be given under the direction of Managers Thall and Kennedy. It is to be a farcical play on the same order as "A Man from Mexico," "What Happened to Jones" and "My Friend from India," written by Sidney Wilmer and Walter Vincent and has scored such a triumph that future efforts of these gentlemen will be looked for with avidity. For ten weeks "A Stranger in a Strange Land" kept the metropolis last season laughing and crowded the Manhattan theater.

Perhaps one of the greatest reasons of its success comes from its being entirely free from any suggestiveness such as taints the French farces with which the country has been surfeited for two seasons. It is clean, pure and wholesome in its fun and yet broadly farcical. This is how the story runs: Jack Thorndyke, a young Englishman of good family, has been going the pace a bit too rapidly in his own country, so his family have sent him to America for a three years' stay on a ranch. Instead of going west, Jack is put off at Buffalo and there remains, albeit he writes home lengthy and thrilling tales of ranch life, in which redskins, cowboys and the like figure largely. All of this is swallowed without question by his relatives, to whom, as to many of our English cousins, "the States" are a sealed book and who know no difference between Buffalo and Butte. Jack's uncle, Charles Dudley, discovers the young man's game, and when Jack is about to return, advises him to bring along a redskin to back up his stories. The letter miscarries and Jack turns up in the first act without an Indian. When he learns the state of affairs, he persuades his friend, Arthur Lowe, who is in love with Grace, Jack's sister, to masquerade as an aborigine who had once saved his life. Meantime the American patent medicine promoter, who carries a real Indian to advertise his remedies, appears on the scene, and of course, his redskin is mistaken by the family for Jack's savior. This starts the complications going and they are [illegible] by a third Indian, in reality a disguised Scotland Yard detective in search of the missing Lowe. After much misunderstanding, matters are cleared up, and Jack marries Alice Wellington, an American heiress, whom he has met on the way to England, while Lowe wins the hand of Grace, Jack's sister. All this, and much more of minor interest is told in a manner entirely satisfactory. The action is quick, the dialogue and situations are amusing throughout and the construction is excellent. But few farcical plays have ever been given such a strong cast as will be seen in this production.

And are indorsed by Colorado Springs citizens:

Mrs. H. C. Hughes, corner of Cascade and Vermijo street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills helped me amazingly and I know they are a reliable remedy for the kidneys. I caught a cold, which settled in the small of my back and in the kidneys and caused me so much pain I was quite miserable. Reading an advertisement in our paper about Doan's Kidney Pills I sent my son to Jones & Wellington's Drug store for a box. The treatment relieved me almost at once and up to date there has been no recurrence of the symptoms."

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness, and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Hefley, Arcularius Drug Co., E. E. Smith, 117 South Tejon street.

KEEPING AT IT PERSISTENTLY

Insures Success in Most of Life's Undertakings. Continued Perseverance and Dogged Persistence Brings Results. This is True Concerning the Sick, and Specially so Concerning Those Who Suffer from Chronic Diseases. Dr. Ellison, the Successful Lung, Throat, and Chronic Disease Specialist, Tells You Why.

Anything that is worth doing merits the best possible effort, and any problem solved is well worth the energies expended. It matters not what your undertaking may be, whether it is to "strike it" in mining, [illegible] follow a profession, farm a ranch, or get well when you are sick, the goal of success is always located up stream, and "keeping at it" is what will bring desired results. Of course, you may "keep at it" and everlastingly fail, for the reason that you are keeping at it in the wrong way. You might look for a gold mine in the Arkansas valley, "keeping at it" all the [illegible] time, and fail; you might travel all over the mountain regions of the world trying to locate a suitable place for a ranch and never find one. You couldn't very well expect to be a successful minister, lawyer, teacher or physician and have your mind and time employed in the grocery business, but "keeping at it" in the right way in any of these undertakings will insure success. A man might just as well expect to run a livery stable on one side of the house and a millinery store on the other side and succeed as for a physician to expect to be successful in treating both acute and chronic diseases at the same time. In the short time a man has allotted to him in this life, if he becomes a pretty good doctor in either of these fields of medicine he is doing well, and the great amount of continuous study, work and expense necessary to this end fully taxes the most perfect physical strength and mental faculties. There are sick people in the world who will always be sick because they are incurable, but there are thousands who are curable but who will always be sick. A person who is sick with chronic disease will not be likely to get well by treating with a physician who devotes about all of his time treating acute diseases, and persons suffering from any acute disease are unwise to call a specialist whose time is so constantly taken up in other lines of professional work. When sick people learn this lesson well there will not be so many incurable cases in this world. Now, if you are sick with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh or chronic diseases, call on Dr. Ellison, the specialist for these diseases. Sit down and have a talk with him about your case. He has been located in the city for three years, treating these diseases every day. His special treatment has stood the test at home, and you can secure it at a reasonable price. It might cure you, and in this case don't you think it worth while to investigate? Now this is what we mean by "keeping at it" in the right way. Dr. Ellison is successful in the treatment of chronic diseases for the reason that he "keeps at it" and has been keeping at nothing else for years. His office is at 24 North Tejon street. You can see him at his office on week days in the morning from 9 to 12 o'clock; in the afternoon from 2 to 5, and in the evening from 7 to 8. On Sundays he is in his office just one hour, from 2 to 3 p. m.

DR. ELLISON'S SULPHUR COUGH CURE

This remedy has long been used by the doctor in his practice for the cough incident to consumption, asthma, bronchitis, croup, diphtheria, coughs, colds, hoarseness, loss of voice, sore throat, whooping cough, influenza, etc. It will not dry up a cough or [illegible] the throwing off the poisonous mucus produced from diseased lungs or a cold, heals the membrane and restores nature to a healthy condition. It is prompt in its action and absolutely harmless. There is no morphine, opium, ipecac or injurious drug in its composition. In croup, whooping cough and diphtheria it liquifies the tough, tenacious mucus and aids its expulsion from the system. Price 50 cents a bottle at the office, 24 North Tejon street (over Craigue's grocery store).

WATER RIGHT PRIORITIES.

THE BILL relating to water right priorities which passed the house on Monday is one of considerable importance to ranchmen in Colorado. Under the Colorado law and the constitution of the state water in running streams is not susceptible of private ownership, but it may be appropriated for beneficial use, and the right to it for this purpose is dependent upon priority of appropriation, that is to say the No. 1 ditch has the right to use the water before any one else and that regardless of the location of the headgate along the stream. So No. 2 has a priority of right over No. 3 or any succeeding number, and No. 61 takes priority over No. 62. But a previous legislature passed a law according to which the owner of No. 1 might loan his water to another ditch owner, regardless of the rule of priorities, and in this way No. 7 or 8 might have the water by virtue of permission obtained from No. 1 and regardless of the rights of No. 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6.

The injustice of this law is evident from the fact that No. 1 has no right to the water except for its beneficial use upon his own land. It is not reasonable to suppose that he would deprive his own land of water to give it to some one else, and even if he did so, that would involve a right to the water apart from its use under the conditions of appropriation, and this right to water is contrary to the spirit at least of the constitution.

The house has therefore acted wisely in reverting to the older and sounder practice, and it is to be hoped that senate and governor will approve the bill.

It would be well if the experience in regard to this matter would teach this legislature and future ones the desirability of letting our present system of irrigation legislation strictly alone. Nothing can be so injurious to ranch interests in this state as constant changes and the resulting inconsistencies in irrigation laws, and as we now have a sensible and simple principle with reasonable legislation in connection with it the best thing to be done is to let it stand as it is.

COLORADO'S QUARTO-CENTENNIAL.

THE SUGGESTION of the Gazette that a suitable celebration be arranged for August 1, the quarto-centennial date of the admission of Colorado as a state is meeting with approval in various sections of the state. The following from the Denver News of yesterday morning undoubtedly voices the universal sentiment of Denver people:

"By proclamation of President Grant, issued August 1, 1876, Colorado was on that date admitted to the national union. The twenty-fifth anniversary of that important event in the annals of the commonwealth occurs on August 1 of this year. Calling attention to these facts the Colorado Springs Gazette remarks that 'it is right and fitting that there should be a public recognition and celebration of the completion of the state's first quarter century.' The Gazette continues with the following suggestion:

"'The Colorado Springs chamber of commerce should be first to move in the matter. A special committee should be appointed at once, and it should cooperate with similar committees from Denver, Pueblo, Cripple Creek and other cities of the state to arrange the details of a proper celebration. Possibly it would be a good plan for this chamber to issue a circular letter to similar organizations calling their attention to the matter and suggesting a conference.

"'The growth and progress of Colorado in the past twenty-five years will afford numerous suggestions for the proper celebration of such an anniversary, and the occasion could be made a most interesting and profitable one in many ways. If Colorado Springs does not move first in the matter, some other city undoubtedly will.'

"It is needless to assert that the Gazette's suggestion of a quarto-centennial celebration is a very proper one, and it is also a fact that the proper place for such official recognition of this anniversary is at the state capital. Considering the various municipal rivalries, it is hardly probable that any one place for a celebration could be agreed upon, unless by common consent the capital city was designated. It may be, however, that various points in the state may desire to hold anniversary celebrations, and it may also be that Denver, in view of the nearness of that date to the Festival of Mountain and Plain may not care to get up two big events in such rapid succession. In that case—if the celebration is held elsewhere—there is no more proper place than Colorado Springs. It has all the conveniences necessary to render such a celebration a success. It adjoins Colorado City, once the site of the territorial capital, and also the camping ground of the first exploring expedition—Pike's—that camped within the present border of Colorado. The chamber of commerce should at once consider the proposition in all its bearings."

The News very properly suggests that owing to the Festival of Mountain and Plain which is to be held this fall in Denver that some other city might [illegible] for this celebration and very generously indicates the superior advantages of Colorado Springs for such a celebration. At that time the new Antlers hotel will have been opened, and this city can easily care for almost as large a crowd as Denver can now handle. The date of the celebration is identical with that of the usual date for holding the flower carnival in this city and the two could well be combined. This is a matter which should be attended to immediately by our people.

COUNT US OUT.

THERE CAN scarcely be two opinions in this country in regard to the proposed expedition into western China. It is indefensible from the standpoint of morals, commerce, finance or world politics, and its aspect becomes much worse in the light of Count von Waldersee's reported remark that the troops can live off the country. This, be it understood, is to be the marching order for an army of Germans, acting under the no-quarter orders of a blood-and-iron emperor, in a province in which millions are dying from starvation.

The prompt instruction to General Chaffee that the United States will not be represented in this expedition is abundantly justified by the circumstances. This country has done some foolish things in the course of its national existence but nothing so utterly inconsistent with the principles of humanity, self-interest and military judgment as this wild-goose chase into the famine provinces of western China.

THE SCHOOLS AND POLITICS.

THERE ARE some advantages in Mr. Hollenbeck's bill which proposes to have the school directors chosen at the regular fall election. Such a plan would certainly be more economical than the present arrangement, and it would bring out a larger vote and might prevent the control of school affairs by small cliques, as is now the case in some places.

But the merits of the bill should not blind the legislators to its very great disadvantages. In proposing a provision that is intended to eliminate politics from the school election the author of the bill admits the evil of mixing politics and school elections, and this sentiment will be universally approved. But the plan of requiring the names to appear on the ballot without any mention of political parties would hardly be sufficient to exclude politics in an election where partisan feeling was running high, and our voters are too intelligent not to be perfectly well aware of the political standing of any candidate on the ticket.

In Colorado Springs, and we believe generally through the state, the present system works very well, and it would be unfortunate to lose the present advantages of keeping politics and the school management well apart.

MR. CANNON'S STATEMENT.

THE CHAIRMAN of the house committee on appropriations has done the right thing in presenting a formal statement of the precise amount of expenditures at the present session.

The figures presented show that while the congress has been spending money on a large scale, it has not done anything to deserve the charges of great and unusual extravagance that have been made against it.

But the worst of it is that such facts and figures as are presented by Mr. Cannon find very slow circulation among the masses of the people, while the reckless and general charges of extravagance that have been so generally sent forth from anti-administration sources find a ready lodgment in the minds of the people.

The attitude of too many persons is that of an expectation of dishonesty, faithlessness and extravagance on the part of public officials. They readily accept as true every rumor or accusation of misdoing and they are very slow to believe the evidence offered in defense.

Such an attitude is not conducive to honest government or to effective public service.

BIBLIOTICS—GRAMMAPHENY—PLASSOPHENY.

NO CLASS of experts has been subject to more ridicule than the one that attempts to certify to handwriting and to establish whether a particular document or signature is genuine or a forgery. A large class of the expert evidence upon this subject in the courts is at least open to suspicion, but it is none the less true that modern methods applied to the critical examination of writing have produced results that are highly valuable.

The new third edition of a standard work by Professor Persifor Fraser of Philadelphia, published by Lippincott, shows what may be done with the microscope, the micrometer and the use of chemical reagents in the study of documents. To the general subject is given the name of bibliotics, and this includes grammapheny, which is the determination of the individual character of handwriting, and plassopheny, or the detection of fraud and forgery. As an example of the original methods of research which Dr. Fraser has contributed to this legitimate branch of applied science may be mentioned: (1) his method for determining the sequence in crossed lines by oblique illumination; (2) the discrimination between inks (qualitative), and the determination of their specific absorptive powers for different colors with reference to a standard light (quantitative), by means of prisms of different colors; the mathematical demonstration of this latter application having been made by Dr. George H. Hallett of the University of Pennsylvania; (3) the discovery of the peculiarities which every writer unconsciously impresses on the down stroke with ink and pencil, a new and interesting study now published for the first time and copiously illustrated; (4) application of composite photography to establish an ideal standard of genuine writing; (5) the method of measurement of parts of sentences, words, and letters, and the employment from writing of known authorship of averages and ratios of these parts to each other for the purpose of ascertaining whether a doubtful writing shows conformity to the acquired habits of a known writer; (6) the method of separating the component elements on guided handwriting; and (7) the characteristics of marks made by the joint action of two hands.

It is in the application of such methods rather than in the processes themselves that the chance of error lies. That is the reason why there are so many experts, so called, whose testimony in the courts is a mass of unreliable and confusing contradictions. The reader therefore of Dr. Fraser's book need not believe that he has all that is necessary to make him an expert in handwriting, but he will have a large amount of information in an interesting and often most valuable field of study.

FORESTRY AS A PROFESSION.

THE PUBLIC INTEREST in the preservation of American forests and the exploitation of our forest industries in a rational and scientific way are indicated with growing frequency.

One of the latest developments along this line is the establishment of a summer school of forestry at Milford, Pa., under the direction of Yale university. The object of the school is to provide instruction in forestry for farmers, lumbermen and others interested in the care of woodlands and tree planting, for forest rangers and teachers and all others who wish to acquire a knowledge of forestry or any of its branches. Information in regard to the school can be obtained from Prof. Henry S. Graves, Yale Forest school, New Haven, Conn.

The Gazette takes pleasure in calling attention to this school because it concerns a matter of great interest and value to our own people. Colorado is not a forest state to the extent that it should be, and our rather scanty natural supply of trees has been seriously depleted by careless lumbering and other destruction. The reservation of large tracts of land in order to secure the sources of our water supply is a step in the right direction, but there needs to be a great enlightening of the people upon this subject in order that forest and stream protection may be supported by proper public sentiment, and there ought besides to be a very general individual effort to promote the growth of trees in this state outside of the reservations.

The Gazette would be glad if a large number of young men and women in Colorado were able to attend the forest school at Milford next summer and return so they could use their newly acquired knowledge for the furtherance of scientific forestry in this state.

Judge Hubbard of the county court is doing a good thing in holding administrators to [illegible] of their duties. Too much looseness in the handling of trust funds is an ever present danger and it is a good thing once in a while when a zealous judge gets after the negligent trustees with a sharp stick.

THE PHILIPPINE FRIARS

The following editorial, which appeared in the Gazette of February 9, is reprinted in response to numerous requests received by this office.

The Gazette has already given several very good reasons why congress should meet in extra session to consider matters relating to Cuba and the Philippines, and why the purposes of this extra session could not be equally well served by the passage of the Spooner resolution delegating the authority of congress to the president to legislate for the Philippines.

We have not, however, referred as yet to the particular questions arising out of the relation of the islanders and the friars of the Catholic orders in the islands. These matters are of the gravest importance as affecting the future of the islands and there are good reasons why they should be investigated and determined by the congress of the United States rather than left to official executive action. Already very ugly rumors of an arrangement or understanding between the United States authorities in the islands and the heads of the monastic orders are being diligently circulated, and it is the evident purpose of the anti-Republican leaders in the senate to force this matter into prominence. The administration owes it to the country and to its party to let the fullest light in upon this matter and to make sure that the final disposition of it shall be such as will commend itself to the general approval of the American people.

The report of the first Philippine commission shows very clearly that the revolt of the natives in 1896 and subsequently was against the friars rather than against the authority of Spain. Church and state were inextricably commingled, to be sure, but the most active and irritating agents of tyranny were the friars. The church took part in all branches of the government. (p. 370), the priest was ex-officio a part of the provincial council, the archbishop by virtue of his position was a member of the advisory council or cabinet, and almost everything was subject to the will of the church. No one could become local presidente or take any office in the judicial department unless it suited the friar (p. 420). The friars wished to be the civil authority, (p. 419) the military authority and they were complete owners of a man's body and soul. The friar was the personification of autocracy, and had as his object the exploitation, spiritually and materially, of the native. No complaint could be made against a priest as a priest. (p. 420). For instance, if a priest took a man's wife away from him, or if he made him pay an exorbitant marriage or burial fee, or if in the confessional he had induced some dying person to leave him a legacy, no complaint could be made against him; because he was not subject to prosecution in the ordinary courts, but in the ecclesiastical court, and there a native could never win his suit, because the judges were friars. The friars always treated the people, (p. 403) with a great deal of harshness, with blows, with threats and with deportation when they did not obey them. In the towns in which the Indian (Filipino) was the owner of most of the ground he had to submit (p. 370), because if he did not he was subject to deportation; in the towns in which the religious orders were the owners of the land there was a disguised slavery. Ecclesiastical control entered into the very most private affairs, without regard to the means it employed. One witness before the commission testified that he thought, (p. 370) that only 5 per cent. of the friars could be calculated as half moral. The religious corporations are Dominicans, Augustinians, Paulists, Franciscans, Recoletos, Capuchins, Jesuits and Benedictines. (p. 402). The worst of these are the Dominicans and the Recoletos, (p. 42) and "the Jesuits (p. 43) are like the locusts in China, they light upon a plantation and they leave their eggs there and in a week where those eggs have been deposited it looks as though a fire had passed over the ground, the very roots of the grass are eaten out;" that is the condition where these Jesuits have carried on their operations. If a man opposed the friar, (p. 408) or threw any obstacle in the way of his committing any abuse, the friar threatened him with excommunication. If a friar wished to make love to a man's daughter and the man opposed it and did all in his power to keep his daughter from being dishonored, the friar would threaten excommunication, and then hand him over to the guardia civil, or use his influence in some other way, and make it a condition that he should have possession of the girl in order for the man to come home. When the priests denounced some individual to the governor (p. 408) the governor ordered the guardia civil to take the man and examine him. Then the guardia civil compelled the man by means of punishments and cruel measures to declare that what the friars said was true, even when it was not true. Of course a man would, finally, under the punishments and cruelties of the guardia civil, admit that the accusation of the friar was true. Then he was brought to Manila, and it often happened that in order that the governing general and the authorities in Manila should not know the abuses which had been committed upon him, the guardia civil would shoot the man on the way and then say they had shot him because he had tried to escape. And in case a prisoner arrived in Manila without being killed on the road he was punished again there, and was deported to unhealthy places like Puerta Princesa, Bastian and Jolo, in order that he might sicken and die as that was what they wished might happen. The opposition of the Filipinos is not to the Catholic church, (p. 363) it is to the monastic orders. The formation of the Katipunan society in 1891 and the subsequent revolt was based upon hatred of the friars and nothing else, (p. 401) but the people did not attack the Catholic religion, they only attacked the religious orders—the friars.

The second paragraph of the eighth article of the peace treaty with Spain declares that the cession by Spain of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines cannot impair in any respect the property or rights which by law belong to the peaceful possession of property of all kinds . . . . . civic or ecclesiastical bodies or other associations having legal capacity to acquire and possess property in the aforesaid territories. There can be no doubt that this paragraph of the treaty has been the cause of great dissatisfaction in the islands and the ill feeling that it has transferred from the Spanish to the Americans has not been allayed by events in the islands since the treaty was signed. In the evidence before the first commission the witnesses examined took the ground that the property held by the friars did not really belong to them, (p. 93) but was given to them by the people, not for the friars themselves, but for the welfare of the givers' souls and for the purpose of education and other benefits to the people. When the United States took possession of the islands the people thought, (p. 363) that we should simply take possession of every bit of property owned by the friars and expel the friars from the islands, and because we did not do that, they came to believe that we were in some way hand in hand with the church and with the monastic orders, and that idea is fostered every time the report is sent out from Manila of any dealings with church property.

The statements to which reference has been made in this article are not a part of the official finding or conclusions of the commissioners, but they are extracted from the testimony of witnesses before the commission and the essential facts are abundantly corroborated.

From them the following conclusions appear to be safely drawn:

1. The continuation of the domination of the friars in the islands is utterly inconsistent with the spirit and policy of the American people, who will never tolerate or approve any arrangement or understanding that will allow the continuation of the abuses that have undoubtedly been widely prevalent.

2. A satisfactory arrangement for the limitation of the power of the friars to strictly religious matters, and the reduction of their land holdings to those to which they have a clear and legal title as owners and not as trustees, are demanded by the principles of justice, will be a powerful help towards the pacification of the islands and are in fact essential to any permanent peace.

3. The treatment of the friars upon principles of American justice and law is not, and cannot be fairly construed as an attack upon the Catholic church, nor is it any violation of our principle of the separation of church and state.

The report of the Philippine civil commission, shortly to be presented to congress, doubtless contains important information and recommendations upon this matter, but whether it does or does not, congress should investigate the question thoroughly and take such action as it may judge proper. It is not something that can safely be postponed, and it is not something that can safely be left to be settled by the authority of any governor general or executive commission, or any lesser authority than the direct representatives of the people of the United States.

MRS. CARTER'S "ZAZA"

Colorado Springs is willing to pay for good things in music and the drama, no matter what the price. It was demonstrated Monday evening when Mrs. Leslie Carter broke the record at the local play house. The managers are not stating the receipts, but it is safe to say that they were between $1,200 and $1,500. It should be remembered, however, that the house accommodates more people since it was remodeled, and Mrs. Carter is the first important person to play at advanced prices.

No one is quarreling about the prices, everybody was satisfied. Mrs. Carter in "Zaza" was probably the most finished and beautiful performance ever given in this city. The detail of the staging was almost perfect, the play being put on just as the New York run. A tremendous amount of baggage and scenery is carried, including a complete electrical outfit and three electrical experts. The effectiveness of [illegible] was demonstrated in the last act, which by the way, would not have amounted to much without the setting.

However, it was in the personnel of the company that the difference between this magnificent performance and that of the average road company, was seen. Even if the character represented had but a line or two it was in the hands of a capable person.

Mr. David Belasco's "Zaza" is an adaptation from the French and there is no more clever play manufacturer in the land than David Belasco. "Zaza" is written in four acts, but it is a play in one act. Paradoxical, no doubt, but that great fourth act saves and redeems the entire play from being stupid and vulgar. Why discuss "Zaza" from the standpoint of morals? Every[illegible] that big audience knew what [illegible] was before they went. It is full of scenes that are absolutely foreign to the experience of most of those present, absolutely foreign to our social system. The emotions were played upon at times, but that may be a matter of nerves. The scenes of the play are placed in the most vulgar surroundings, there is hardly a character that is not sordid and tawdry. The [illegible] of introducing the unfamiliar workings of a stage in the first act has absolutely nothing to do with the development of the play. When one [illegible] Zaza [illegible] radiant [illegible] thought [illegible] pathetic [illegible] where Zaza visits [illegible] love and talks with the child, and where she sees the wedding ring on the finger of her friend.

But if it was not the play, and if the staging was not vastly superior to everything else ever produced here, why did people leave the opera house with the profound impression that they had seen a remarkable performance. It must have been the acting. That was exactly the thing, the astonishing work of Mrs. Carter in that fourth act, in which she pictures the nervous collapse of a high-strung woman. It is pathetic from the very opening, where the poor ignorant thing arrays herself in a brilliant garment for breakfast to welcome and please the lover, the repressed emotion through the little meal, her knowledge of the difference between her makeshift at housekeeping and his beautiful home were all calculated to excite one. The climax really came at the point where she fell upon the sofa, exclaiming "You oughten to done it, dearie." It is true that at the end, after he has vilified her and then wants to caress her there is a more dramatic point, when, in the height of hysteria, [illegible]. It was magnificent.

But Mrs. Carter is not a finished actress. Marie Bates, who played Aunt Rosa, is an artist. Never for a moment did the audience have reason to remember that she was not the rum-soaked, selfish old woman. But Mrs. Carter's sudden transitions from the correct and beautiful enunciation of the drawing room to the slang of the ignorant concert-hall girl were too marked. There is this too, that there was lacking the French atmosphere. Mrs. Carter's "Zaza" might have come from the Bowery, never from the Latin Quarter.

It is not hard to discuss the rest of the people, for there are practically only four speaking parts in the play. Chas. A. Stevenson is a fine actor, but as Dufresne he has only to look the part. He is merely something to be caressed and talked to. It is most trying, and one less dignified, less skilled than Mr. Stevenson would be ridiculous most of the time. His delineation was clever, very much as the average man would have done it in a similar circumstance. Mark Smith as Cascart and Herbert Millward as the duke were very good. It was Marie Bates' splendid character work as the old aunt that was the complete touch of art in the performance.

When such effort was made at detail in staging it is remarkable that no one has called Mrs. Carter's attention to the fact that she calls for her [illegible] a railroad ride to Paris in an evening gown and great white plumes. It was a harsh note. Anyway, Mr. Theater managers for Colorado Springs, give us more Carter performances or their like—and deuce take the cost.

That constant, steady, unswerving purpose, kept in view from the beginning (more than 20 years ago), "QUALITY AND PRICE FIRST," will be maintained, for it has ever borne fruit, the past year's sales exceeding the previous highest figure, a result naturally caused by the PEOPLE'S CONFIDENCE that our goods are always as they should be, that our statements and dealings are absolutely to be depended upon, and that our prices are and must be as low or lower than those named elsewhere.

Money at Interest

Do not hold idle money. Make it earn you something. The best way to do this is to place it with THE ASSURANCE SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, 109 E. Kiowa street, the funds of which are secured by first mortgage upon improved real estate. Deposits with this association draw from 4 to 6 per cent. interest. Its monthly installment stock earns higher rate of interest.

Now We Are Ready

Some time ago we began to advertise our new Addition on the Cheyenne Road and known as Cheyenne Heights. After having made the announcement we decided that it would be better to wait and make some improvements on the property before pushing the sale of lots. We have done this now and are placing before the buying public one of the best situated tracts of land that has ever been offered in the way of suburban building sites. It has every advantage that would offer an inducement to the man or woman who want a home. within two blocks of the new Ivywild school house and one block from the Rapid Transit car lines, there is every reason to believe that the lots will sell rapidly.

Society Enjoys Amateur Theatricals

The Perkins Fine Arts hall was peopled by a fashionable audience last evening on the occasion of the amateur theatricals, so excellently presented by some of the cleverest non-professional talent in the city.

For weeks the ladies and gentlemen have given much painstaking time to rehearsals and the performance, so greatly anticipated really exceeded expectation, being spirited, amusing and thoroughly enjoyable. St. Stephen's church was the beneficiary; hence, from the worthiness of the object, coupled with the high social prestige of the performances it was to be expected that society people would be out en masse. And they certainly were. Full dress was the rule and a magnificent reception was accorded to everything on the programme.

"A Dinner Comedy," a sparkling bit of dramatic work, given as a "curtain-raiser," was acceptably played by Mrs. Francis C. Harris, Mrs. James H. McMillan, Mrs. Percy Hagerman, Mrs. Charles Farnsworth, Mrs. Butler Williamson, Mr. H. J. Von Hemert, Mr. Clarence Edsall, Mr. Harry Leonard, Mr. Frank Waters and Mr. Harry Davidson.

A bevy of ladies interpreted "Scenes from Cranford" with great fidelity, the quaint costuming adding piquancy and enhancing the delight of the play. In the cast were Mrs. Yarker, Mrs. Bryant, Miss Nina Lunt, Miss Katherine Adams, Miss Beatrice Young and the Misses Leonard. The third was a farce, "A Fool for Luck," very amusingly played by Miss Rose Frey, Miss Lillian Solly, Miss Isabel Nicholson, Mr. Walter F. Douglas, Mr. Clarence E. Dodge, Mr. Albert Gardiner, Mr. Richard P. [illegible].

There were several delightful dinner parties preceding the performance, and afterwards a very enjoyable dance occurred at the Kinnikinnick. It was given by Mrs. Leonard, assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Leonard, and her daughters, the Misses Leonard. Receiving with Mrs. Leonard were several of the patronesses of the theatricals.

Secret Societies Hold Social Entertainments

Ramona chapter No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained the presidents of the colonial period and other distinguished guests of that time at the Masonic temple last night. The occasion was the colonial reception which has been looked forward to by Masons of the city for some time and which was a delightful success.

The Masonic temple was crowded with Masons and their families. The room was beautifully decorated with national colors, flags, etc., and made a very pretty scene. At about 8:30 the grand march was started and the distinguished guests of honor, led by Uncle Sam and Miss Columbia, marched around inside the circle of chairs before the gaze of the large crowd of spectators. All the celebrities of "ye olden tyme" were present, gaily adorned in the height of colonial fashion. Mr. George Kennedy as Uncle Sam and Miss Rawley as Miss Columbia, led the march. In the line were E. E. Baty as George Washington, J. W. Atkinson as Adams, E. L. Hayner as Jefferson, Frank Van Metre as Madison, Arthur Newton as Monroe, G. W. Musser as John Quincy Adams, while A. M. Holden represented George the Third. Later in the evening "Teddy Roosevelt" appeared in the person of W. J. Tallman. His entrance was greeted with applause.

The ladies also were in colonial costume. Lady Washington was there in the person of Mrs. Musser, Mrs. Buchanan represented Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Rafield represented Mrs. Madison, Miss Shields appeared as Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Manning represented Mrs. Jefferson, Mrs. Newton was the indispensible "Priscilla" of those days, while Mrs. Ramsey as "Dinah" and Mrs. Baty as "Topsy" were among the characters which attracted much attention. Others were attired in colonial costume but did not represent any particular characters.

After the grand march the audience arose and sang "America." After a few minutes had been spent in shaking hands the party divided off into games, etc. Music interspersed the evening's programme and a supper was served at the close. The menu included pork and beans, doughnuts, gingerbread, coffee, cider, pickles and cheese.

The costumes were very attractive and the characters were all well represented. It was an evening of unrestrained mirth and pleasure and will long be remembered by the large number who participated in it.

The Ancient Order of Pyramids gave a very pleasant dance and social in the K. of P. hall in the De Graff building last night. The evening was opened with an address of welcome by Mrs. Schisler which was followed by a programme consisting of the following numbers: Recitation, Miss Andrews; reading, Miss Evans; vocal solo, Mr. Jeancon; recitation, Mrs. Shulman. After the programme the floor was cleared and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Director Irvine of the Midland band and Mr. Jeancon of the same organization furnished the music for the occasion. There was a large attendance and an evening of great pleasure was enjoyed by all.

Roosevelt Left Amid Loud Cheers

The gallant colonel has been in Colorado Springs since Sunday morning but, had it not been for the newspaper comment few in the city would have known of his presence here. He came as a private citizen to visit his old friend Mr. P. B. Stewart, and at his request he was allowed to spend the time here quietly with his friend. It was known that Mr. Roosevelt was to leave last night and a number of people were at the depot to see him off. Several trains were standing at the Santa Fe depot when Mr. Roosevelt arrived at the station and while waiting for the departure of his own train the vice president-elect held an informal reception on the depot platform and shook hands with a large number of people. When his train pulled out and he stood on the rear platform of his private car waving an adieu to his friends on the depot platform, the crowd set up a rousing cheer which the gallant colonel acknowledged with a farewell salute.

Mr. Roosevelt left over the Santa Fe in the car "400" of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad which was placed at his disposal by that road and which came down from Denver yesterday. He will go to New York by way of Chicago without any stops. His destination will be Oyster Bay, his home, and he will remain there but a short time before leaving for Washington for his inauguration.

Mr. Roosevelt expresses himself as very much pleased with his visit to Colorado. He was pleased with the deference paid to his request that he be allowed to stay in this city quietly. He has enjoyed his visit with Mr. Stewart and has enjoyed the sport furnished him by Joe Kenyon and his dogs.

Mr. Stewart, Dr. Webb and Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Webb joined the colonel on another coyote hunt yesterday morning. The party was in charge of Joe Kenyon and took an eastern course, later diverting to the south. Six coyotes were stirred up but owing to wire fences it was impossible to get any of them. The dogs were turned loose after two of the animals. The chase covered a distance of over 50 miles, all told, and it was late in the afternoon when the party finally wound up at Fountain. Owing to the lateness of the hour the party took the train back from Fountain in order that the colonel might not miss the night train for the east.

At Fountain an interesting episode occurred. While the colonel and party were waiting at the depot a man stepped up to Colonel Roosevelt and introduced himself as John Sitlinger. The colonel shook hands with Mr. Sitlinger and asked him if he lived in Fountain. Mr. Sitlinger replied that he did. Colonel Roosevelt then asked him what his business was, to which Mr. Sitlinger replied:

"I am only a cow-puncher."

Mr. Roosevelt extended his hand to the man again and said: "I am a cow-puncher myself. I guess we'll have to shake again."

After returning to this city Mr. Roosevelt and party repaired to Mr. Stewart's home on East San Rafael street where the colonel dined and after finishing his preparations he was driven to the train and left at 6:20.

WANTED: TICKET BUYERS

The requirements of President Hickey have not yet been complied with, and the baseball franchise owned by Mr. Hulen is not yet settled for this city. The committee in charge of selling season tickets enough to raise the guarantee worked hard yesterday and made progress, but not as much as they had hoped to make. Probably half the required number of tickets have been sold and it is hoped that the business men and others will respond promptly today when the members of the committee wait on them. The tickets are being sold at $15 a piece, which is less than 25 cents a game, and as they are transferable those who get in on this proposition will get a bargain. The matter has to be settled within a few days and the business men of the city are urged to assist the committee as far as possible. Those who have talked with the leading men of the city state that feeling is growing in favor of the proposition and the business men feel that the securing of a Western league team for Colorado Springs would be a great thing for the city. The committee asks these gentlemen to back their beliefs to the extent of $15 for a ticket for which they are sure to get value received.

Travel In A Palace on Wheels

The handsomest railroad train that ever crossed the continent and probably the finest ever made up in the world, arrived in this city yesterday morning over the Rio Grande from Denver. On board the train was a distinguished party of easterners en route to California and they stopped in this city long enough to drive to the different points of interest in the vicinity. The party includes Dr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fred R. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence, Miss Metcalf and Miss Dicks. Dr. Webb represents the Vanderbilt interests. He is the son-in-law of Cornelius Vanderbilt and is interested in a number of large speculations in the east. He was seen by a Gazette reporter yesterday afternoon in his handsome train which stood near the Rio Grande depot. Through his kindness the reporter was shown through the train and was surprised to find that railroad coaches could be turned into such a palace. It was hard to remember that all these things were in a train and not in a large New York mansion.

The make-up of the train was as follows: first was a special horse car, used for the baggage of the party, then the cafe car, the "Genesta," the "Swananono," and last but by no means least came Dr. Webb's own private car, the "Ellsmere," which is as fine as it is possible to make a car. All of the cars have the words "New York Central and Hudson River" printed across the top and are vestibuled. The interior of the train is magnificent. The furnishings are of the finest and there is a home-like air to the place which it would seem impossible to obtain on a train. The coaches are guarded against the too curious inspection of the public and it is very hard indeed to gain an entrance to the cars. On board the train in addition to the party are ten servants including chefs, porters, policemen, waiters, valet, etc. There are also a number of pets belonging to the different members of the party such as birds, dogs and parrots.

"How do you spare so much time for a pleasure trip?" was asked of Dr. Webb. He said:

"I am in direct communication with New York by wire all the time and also have my private secretary with me.

"Our trip has nothing to do with the reported Vanderbilt deals in railroads and we are simply sight-seeing. We drove to the Garden of the Gods this morning and this afternoon will go to Manitou for the purpose of seeing the sights of that famous little summer resort. I like this country very much but am somewhat anxious to go on to California as our time cannot last always."

Dr. Webb had a few invited guests from this city to lunch with the party in their cars yesterday afternoon. The train was stocked with provisions before leaving New York and they will probably hold out till the return of the party next month.

A large number of people went to the Rio Grande depot yesterday during the stay of the train in this city, their curiosity having been aroused by the announcement which was made in the Gazette yesterday morning in regard to the coming of the train. People inspected the cars from every point but if some one would venture too close he was sure to be confronted by a big black porter who demanded his business. At three o'clock in the afternoon the train proceeded to Manitou drawn by two of the Rio Grande's big passenger engines. It returned and departed for the west later in the evening. It is understood that the next stop of any importance will be at Salt Lake after which the trip to Coronado Beach will be made with as much speed as possible as the party wants to enjoy the delightful climate of California as long as possible before returning to the more uncertain climate of New York.

CITY HALL NOTES

Business is very dull about the different inspectors' offices and most of the time is spent in speculating on the coming city election. However, once in a while there is a building permit issued or something of the kind. Food Inspector Custer yesterday condemned five gallons of oysters as unfit for food and ordered them destroyed.

R. J. Murphy was arrested in a state of intoxication on Huerfano street yesterday by Officer Bennett and locked up. He will be given a chance to tell his troubles to the police magistrate this morning.

In police court yesterday morning business was very dull as compared with the day before when fourteen drunks were lined up for trial. Yesterday only two were in jail and the judge took pity on them and fined them $2 and costs each which they paid. The names of the drunks were given as James Walton and Charles Scott.

Thomas Robinson was arrested on Huerfano street yesterday by Officer Calvert and locked up, charged with disturbing the "peace and quiet of others." It is charged by the complaining witness that Robinson used profane language to a lady.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

In the district court yesterday afternoon a jury granted Catherine Roberts a divorce from F. E. Roberts. The jury reached a verdict without leaving their seats. It was based on non-support and desertion.

The Granite Hill case in which Schlele and others are contesting the sale of the Granite Hill lode claim to W. S. Stratton, was continued until March 11 in order that the deposition of Mrs. Shannon might be secured.

Judge Cunningham yesterday took the case of McDougall et al. vs. Colburn et al. under advisement. It is a suit brought to compel an alleged trustee to turn over real estate to the proper owners.

The case of Edgar Pew vs. the Oil Creek Gold Mining Co. was begun yesterday afternoon before Judge Cunningham in division 2 of the district court. It is a suit for $25,000 damages said to have been caused the plaintiff by the explosion of some powder in the company's tunnel, the explosion, it is alleged, having been due to negligence on the part of the company. A jury was secured yesterday and the case will be continued this morning.

Several motions were listened to during the day and one or two minor orders were entered.

In the county court the case of Burney vs. Burney was dismissed at plaintiff's motion and cost.

The two suits of the Newton Lumber Co. vs. Rogers et al. were continued until the next term of court.

Judge Hubbard yesterday granted first papers of naturalization to August Ludwig Pohlson, a native of Sweden.

JUSTICE COURTS

The case of Cone vs. Sheffler in which the plaintiff wants possession of the house at No. 229 South Wahsatch, was set for trial February 25.

The case of Murphy vs. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McPherson was set for trial February [illegible] at 10 a. m.

Kellogg, McKay, Cameron and company vs. F. B. Hannon, dismissed at costs of the plaintiff.

People vs. Cameron, charged with cattle stealing, was set for February 27. Cameron was released under $1,000 bonds.

Shideler vs. Bowen, a replevin suit, continued until March [illegible].

LECTURE TODAY ON SNOW CRYSTALS

The lecture on "Snow Crystals" to be delivered at Perkins hall this afternoon by Professor Shedd is based upon his paper presented some weeks since to the Colorado College Scientific society, but contains new material derived from the author's continued researches upon the subject, and present his store of material in an eminently popular and interesting form, while not losing sight of its attractions to the students of science. Like the preceding paper, the lecture will be copiously illustrated with lantern projections. As is well known, the variety of form manifested by the crystals of snow is amazingly great, finely exemplifying nature's wealth of diversity in the unity of a single plan. The fundamental scheme of all these forms of crystals is the hexagon, but while certain properties of the figure are rigidly observed without variation the symmetry is sometimes obscured, and curved lines due to the presence of air-bubbles are present in bewildering multiplicity of shapes. The subject is often highly ornamental, well suited to give hints to the decorative artist. It is possible to distinguish among these crystalline forms those produced rapidly from those slowly built up, and to draw sundry inferences, interesting to the meteorologist, of the character of the storm in which each had its origin. The hour of the lecture is 3:30. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SECOND ARIEL HOP ANOTHER SUCCESS

The second of the dances to be given this season by the Ariel club took place last night at Broadmoor casino. The affair was attended by even a larger crowd than was present at the first of the series, the tremendous success of the opening dance causing a determination upon the part of nearly all the holders of invitations not to miss another.

If the first dance was a success the one of last evening was a greater one. The congeniality of the company which forms the club membership is greater than was ever the case before in the history of the organization, and the affair is almost like an informal dance at a private home but on a larger scale.

The music was furnished by Barnes' orchestra, and it was under the direction of Mr. Fink, who scored such a complete triumph with the club members upon the occasion of the first dance. The best dance music to which Colorado Springs dancers have responded has been played at Broadmoor casino, but the casino never had more inspiring dance music than it has had for both the Ariel dances this year.

Mueth served refreshments, the plan being the same as that at the first dance. The final hour was 11:30 and the club members did the honors.

Hot Air Kills La Grippe.

Just a few treatments in our Hot Air Baths and your Grippe is entirely eradicated from your system. The poisonous deposits left by this disease and which hang on so obstinately, causing throbbing headaches, muscular soreness and a feeling of general weakness yield more readily to the Hot Air treatment than to any other. These dangerous poisons must be entirely disposed of before the system can build up again, and while they remain in the body are a constant menace to health and a permanent danger, ultimately concentrating in the body's weakest point and causing other severe sickness. If you've had the Grippe be sure you get it all out.

HOT AIR BATHS

Are most quickly effective. Their effect is immediate in bringing the impurities out through the pores. They are scientifically, and in practical results, superior to any other hot baths.

EL PASO PURCHASES MORE GROUND

The Australia and Little May Claims Acquired for 400,000 Shares of Stock---Good Plan of Development Outlined.

The El Paso Gold Mining and Milling company yesterday purchased of Mattie B Burris the Australia and Little May claims on Beacon hill for a consideration of 400 000 shares of consolidated stock shares or $160 000 in cash The deeds of the sale were yesterday recorded in Cripple Creek recording the transaction

These claims are located end to end on the east side of the El Paso group and add 18 acres to that company's holdings giving them 5[illegible] acres of Beacon hill ground

There have been two ore shoots opened on this property in veins which run the [illegible] of the claims and during the past year the owners have shipped a good quantity of ore from the upper workings

There are now two ore shoots each 100 feet long blocked out in the veins in the 10[illegible] foot level stulled and already for production to be started This ore will be broken down and shipped as soon as operations can be got under way

The management of the El Paso company has outlined the following plan of development for this part of their ground First a crosscut will be run from the Tillery vein into the west vein in the Little May ground and then on to [illegible] The [illegible] will be run at a depth of [illegible]0 feet in the Tillery vein and [illegible] the two ore shoots in the Little May at a depth of [illegible] feet after about 275 feet of crosscutting Then a drift will be started from the old Standard tunnel in which the veins were first opened which will cut these shoots at a depth of something over [illegible]00 feet and from their new 600 foot station a crosscut will also be sent into Little May ground opening the ore at a depth of about [illegible]50 feet

These claims are located on the main Beacon hill contact and are in a particularly advantageous position to be developed from the El Paso shaft Their acquisition gives to the El Paso company five producing parallel veins

The crosscut to the east from the 600 foot station in the El Paso has now progressed for [illegible] the vein [illegible] not yet been cut but is expected at any time A crosscut will also be run for a west vein from which a very good production was made in the early days of the mine but which has never been opened at any considerable depth It is estimated that 100 feet of crosscutting will catch this vein

On the [illegible]th inst a special meeting of El Paso and Kimberly stockholders will be held for the purpose of ratifying the consolidation The books of the company will open on the day after the meeting and remain open for three days during which time all stockholders who wish to get the stock dividend must have their stock transferred Both El Paso and Kimberly will sell ex dividend on the [illegible]th

POINTER PRODUCED $14,330.00

In the Month of January---This Month's Will Run About $10,000 More---Pointer Drift is Now Under the Mint Shaft.

The figures for the output of the Pointer mine on [illegible] hill for the month of January [illegible] and are as follows During the month 210 tons were shipped of a [illegible] value of $14 [illegible]0 making the average cash value of the ore produced [illegible] in gold to the ton

This [illegible] not [illegible] $10 0[illegible] worth of [illegible] which was shipping during January but [illegible] returns from which were not received until some [illegible] this month

The drift in the [illegible] has now progressed for a distance of over 600 feet all the way in ore The [illegible] has averaged between eighteen inches and two feet in width with average values of three ounces in gold to the ton At a point where the ore was still of this grade in the breast a turn was made and seven feet of crosscutting was accomplished putting the workings directly under the Mint shaft An upraise will now be started and when a connection is effected the Mint shaft will be down [illegible] feet below the surface This connection will be a very important accomplishment for the Pointer mine as all their work has been greatly hampered by the bad air which has been encountered When the ventilation will permit as it will when the Pointer and Mint workings are connected a drift will be sent into Mint [illegible] ground a development which would have been undertaken several weeks ago but for the bad air [illegible] hindered it The connection will be effected by the middle of March

At this development which will be [illegible] after this [illegible] the sinking from the [illegible] The shaft is now down [illegible] feet and will be extended [illegible] feet further and [illegible] other levels [illegible]

The production is running much higher this month than it did last and it is estimated that the value of the production will amount to between $[illegible]000 and $[illegible]000 Stoping has been [illegible] started in all of the levels and the mine is [illegible] good [illegible]

All the work in the Pointer mine [illegible] [illegible] through its own shaft and not the Mint The [illegible] connection [illegible] effected merely for ventilation

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The [illegible] arrived in camp yesterday for the unwatering of the Elkton shaft and they were tested yesterday The management expresses every confidence in their efficacy and hopes to have the [illegible] [illegible] pump recovered in 48 hours after work with the reservoirs which are to be attached to the bottom of the cages are started

EXCHANGE WILL TAKE THREE DAYS' HOLIDAY.

At a meeting called of the members of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association yesterday afternoon during the progress of the call the question of the Washington's Birthday holiday was raised Mr D C Shove who presided stated that the other exchanges throughout the country were going to take a holiday on Friday and Saturday and that it had been moved that this exchange do the same There were no remarks passed on the motion and when put was carried unanimously Accordingly an adjournment will be taken at the close of the call on Thursday until Monday morning The holiday dedicated to the Father of His Country comes as a most timely one to the local brokers who have been swamped with business ever since the beginning of the year

STRIKE ON THE AREQUA CLAIM OF THE DOROTHY

Word was received yesterday at the offices of the Dorothy Gold Mining company in this city that in trenching on the Arequa acreage of the company a strong two foot lead had been encountered which bore every appearance of carrying pay values Samples of the ore were taken but no assays had been obtained last night The work on this claim is being conducted on company account and trenching had been started to decide upon a location for a deep shaft which will be put down If this vein proves to be what its present appearance indicates it is likely that the shaft will be sunk on this place This ground is located just west of the Elkton and a recent strike on that ground is supposed to have an extension into Dorothy property The present lead however has a northeasterly trend

BOB LEE SHAFT COMES INTO A STREAK OF TALC

At a depth of about 1[illegible]0 feet in the shaft which the Bob Lee company is sinking on its land [illegible] a marked improvement has just taken place in the nature of the rock in which the shaft is being put down The work [illegible] the granite and phonolite and recently a streak of talc has appeared from which assays of about $6 80 have been obtained While this value is too small to be reckoned with the fact that the streak has come into the shaft before any legitimate vein has been encountered or before any assays were expected is considered an auspicious occurrence The company is making very good progress in sinking and will attain the 300 foot point in a few weeks when active exploration work will be started laterally from the shaft

LEASE GRANTED ON THE NAVAJO'S COLUMBIA CLAIM

The directors of the Navajo Mining and Milling company have just granted a lease on the company's Columbia claim to James A Smith for a period of two years with royalties at the rate of [illegible]0 per cent The lease also provides for a good amount of work each month and the lessees after establishing a site for their shaft by drifting will sink to a depth of at least 100 feet at once The company will work on that portion of the ground adjoining the Mattie Williams of the Sunshine company and today two men will be

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Feb. 19.—The market opened a little soft again, as seems to be the tendency at present, but soon strengthened up fairly well, and closed with as good a record as was achieved yesterday. There seems to be a little hesitancy manifested on the part of traders to buy or sell before they know what the market is going to do. It has been firm for so long now that there is a little bit of uncertainty every morning, but the bull which every one would be glad to welcome with its opportunities of buying cheaply, does not come. Every one seems to be a bull, and it is impossible to beat the market down as a whole, although there are a few stocks which offer better chances for operation.

The market in the afternoon manifested fair strength, the close being marked by a decided confidence in great contrast to the spongy opening in the morning. There was considerable profit-taking apparent, however, but it was offset by as healthy a demand as has been noticed for some time. A few stocks, such as Missouri, Columbia and New Haven, were especially susceptable to the reactionary impulse usually manifested by suddenly appreciated stocks. The trading in these shares brought forth some weakness, especially in Columbia, which closed at 14. Eclipse weakened to 10½ and Army sold down to 5⅝. Sedan looked better at 15, Damon worse at 14½, and Acacia still bad at 19¾. Jefferson manifested considerable strength at 11¾ and National advanced to 9¾. In the mines list Golden Cycle manifested the most strength, although Isabella was in good demand at 86. Zoe went all to pieces in the afternoon, selling down to 13¼. It was noticed, however, that there was much buying at 30 days which is sometimes taken as a straw showing that the wind is blowing toward higher prices in the end.

The sales for the day amounts to 1,361,081 shares of which the cash value was $117,570.

EASTERN MARKETS.

New York, Feb. 19.—There was an element among the professional operators on the stock exchange which worked for a rally today on the theory that yesterday's selling was largely due to operations for the bear account and that the vigorous support of the market would drive these bears to cover. The maneuver was wholly without success in the early dealings but all of the market's strength was confined to a very few stocks and was not long maintained. Business fell away to the point of semi-stagnation at times during the day, showing no signs of the recent large demand or of the operations by large banking and financial interests which was the backbone of the market for a long time. Obviously none but professional operators were interested to any great extent in the day's transactions. The suspense of the protracted negotiations over the steel merger is trying the nerves of all speculators. The steel stocks were still feverish and unsettled but generally weakened during the course of the day.

The money market was not violently disturbed but the tone continues to harden. A check for over $23,000,000 on account of the New Jersey Central railroad purchase went through the clearing house today and was a reminder of the continuing influence on the money market of the recent deals. A development which may have important consequences was a recovery in discount rates in London in spite of the general supposition that the bank rate will be reduced this week. Sterling exchange hardened in New York on a demand for remittance by tomorrow's steamer. It seems to be the expectation in London that the low point has been touched for discount rates, which would have an important bearing on any future needs of the New York money market.

The decision to close the stock exchange from Thursday to Monday morning was an influence toward dullness. There was some uneasiness due to the reopening of the wage question in the anthracite region, the present agreement extending only to April 1. The coalers were in consequence especially weak.

There was large buying again in Southern Pacific bonds but they lost most of their [illegible] and the general bond list was [illegible]. Total sales, par value $4,[illegible].

U. S. bonds were unchanged.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The corn market was animated, holding fast to its recently acquired position as leader of the board of trade speculative attractions. The liquidating movement which began in force yesterday was continued and while the volume of business was smaller it was still sufficiently heavy to draw attention from all over the floor. The crowd encouraged by lighter country offerings, small contract stocks and above all by the stubbornness with which the price had yielded in the face of immense sales by longs, was optimistic and absorbed all offerings in cheerful confidence that the high price of the crop had not yet been reached.

A degree of mysterious strength permeated the wheat market. The best buyers, and the market was a dull one, were owners of elevators. This occurring during a month when elevator people are generally selling futures against their low grade wheat stimulated covering but the trade generally was in small lots. The market rallied again and closed strong at the top, May [illegible] higher at [illegible].

Oats were dull.

Provisions recovered from a slight depression which was left over yesterday.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

Denver, Feb. 19.—This was a very dull and uninteresting day in produce circles. Poultry runs weak. Receipts have been heavy and with the quiet demand for the first of the week prices naturally ease off. Eggs are barely steady. Offerings are plenty and liberal for all wants. Demand is dull and only a very light movement. Elgin advanced a cent yesterday. This had the effect of firming the local market, but prices are no higher.

started to work trenching. The company has a good cash developing fund on hand, and will actively develop the ground. Other applications for leases on this ground are pending.

KELLUM REPORTED TO HAVE OPENED SEDAN ORE.

There was a rumor on the streets yesterday afternoon to the effect that Lessee Kellum had encountered the Sedan ore in his crosscut from the 110-foot station, but none of the officers had heard from the lessee, although they were expecting the news. The distance at which the foot wall of the dike, on which the vein lies, was cut in the 75-foot crosscut in this shaft indicated that at a depth of 110 feet the shaft would encounter the vein. But it seems that it has straightened up, and a crosscut is now being run for it, and any round of shots is expected to reveal the high values which were encountered 35 feet above.

VEIN CUT ON FLORENCE OWNED BY C. C. CONS.

In crosscutting to the north in the Florence claim of the Cripple Creek Consolidated company a four-foot vein of brown quartz has just been cut, but no values are found at the point of intersection. Drifting will be started at once. Several veins have been cut in the work at this depth, 325 feet, but while some good assays have been obtained, no pay ore has been encountered. The latest of the veins, however, [illegible] than those encountered previously. In the Colorado Pore the lessees have opened two veins in a crosscut which has now progressed for a distance of 140 feet from the Ophelia tunnel.

TRANSVAAL IS GETTING ASSAYS WHICH RUN PAY.

The Transvaal property, on the crest of Galena hill, has one of the most favorable showings in that part of the camp. The shaft is now down about 20 feet on a contact between granite and phonolite, and a streak of gangue quartz carries pay values. The work is being pushed, however, without any attempt to prospect the dike at the present depth, and the shaft will probably be put down 100 feet before any extensive work is started. The dike is very well defined and crosses the property for almost the entire extent of the claim. Galena hill is still in the prospective stage, but those who have reported on it say that the prospects are encouraging. The surface indications are certainly very bright, and the strength and definition of the dikes and veins ought to be promising of favorable conditions for ore below.

NO TROUBLE NOW IN FINDING ARVILLA PROPERTY.

The Arvilla company owning 26 acres of ground adjoining the Victor and Isabella companies on Bull hill, Cripple Creek, have done a most commendable act in designating the lines of their property on the ground by large and conspicuous monuments. It required 42 monuments, six feet in length and six inches square, the cap of the same being painted red, the upper half white and the portion going down into the ground black to preserve the same. The white portion is numbered, lettered and named, so that a person can readily tell what corner of the property it is. These conspicuous monuments can be seen at a long distance. One trouble in Cripple Creek is that, on account of the claims [illegible] there are few companies which have their boundaries designated as located or surveyed; in fact, most of the owners of ground cannot tell where their exact [illegible] are. The present parties who have the lease and bond on the Arvilla desired the boundaries established so they could be readily understood. Surveys have also been made to develop the property on a regular system, so that the Arvilla levels will come the same as the Victor, adjoining, the workings of which have penetrated the Arvilla. It will also connect with the workings of the Isabella, which have also entered the Arvilla ground at one or more places. The present bond on the Arvilla property requires a large expenditure in development and a payment to the Arvilla company of $750,000, if paid for the first year, $1,000,000 if paid for the second year, and $1,250,000 if paid for the third year, and to keep the lease good the lessees have to do a large amount of permanent and systematic development work.

RAILROAD INTO ELDORA AND TO ROUTT COUNTY.

The directors of the Colorado & Northwestern railway and some officials of the Burlington are understood to be completing plans for extending the former road into Routt county, one of the most wonderful of Colorado's undeveloped mineral counties, and this will also include a line to the thriving Ward camp of Eldora. It is probable that the line will be extended to Eldora, whether the Routt county project is carried into effect or not. The rails are only a few miles distant and no especial feats of engineering are necessary to carry them into the gold camp. It is thought that the coming spring will see this work under way. The Burlington has long had a hungry eye on the vast resources of Routt county, among which are numbered the greatest coal fields outside of Pennsylvania. The president of the Colorado & Northwestern road is now in Denver and he has stated that it is his wish for a line to go into Routt county by way of Middle Park, sending a four-mile tunnel under [illegible] range to get there.

IMPROVEMENT IN ROSE NICOL ORE

A marked improvement has just taken place in the ore which was recently cut in the Rose Nicol property on Battle mountain. At first it was a mere streak which was cut, carrying only the slightest values, but in 10 feet of drifting which has now been accomplished, the vein has widened to two feet, and carries one foot of ore which averages $20 in gold to the ton.

If in the next 10 feet the ore maintains this improvement, there will be a good shipping body of rock in sight in the mine.

The company is pursuing this work on its own account at a depth of 400 feet from the surface and is working with an ample treasury reserve to insure its continuance. The location of the property is such as to encourage a belief that a fine body of ore exists in it.

HOW'S THIS
Parties who have made the rounds, and who ought to be in a position to know, tell me that I have the largest list of properties for rent of any real estate firm in the city. Be this as it may, I do know I have located numerous parties, very nicely, and yet have a good stock of "want suppliers" on hand for others. But will soon run short unless you, who have houses and rooms for rent, list them with me. True, in renting there is not much "in it" for the real estate man. But with me, small favors are thankfully received, trusting that they will lead to larger ones later. I also have a fine lot of properties for sale, some genuine bargains. One 4-room house, new, owner compelled to sell at once; price $950; cash, $300, balance monthly payments of $10. One 3-room house, nice, close in; price $875, $100 down, balance $15 per month. Others. Come in and see me.
Yours for business,
BERT WISE.
